Lost in PARADISE

Give your face a dreamy desert island makeover with this summer's sun, sea and sand shades

Sky eye
For eyes like a Caribbean sky at noon.
"Reach for denim-blue eyeshadow - and very little else," says our makeup artist Lisa Valencia. "The secret to making blue look modern is to let it be the sole focus of your makeup. I applied a solid block of colour to the lid, then blended it just past the socket line. I used the lower lashes with the same shade and used nothing else, not even mascara, just make sure you work the colour right into the lash line." Stick to bronze and nude hues for cheeks and lips.

Solar power

"Yellow looks beautiful against tanned skin," says Lisa. "Warm, sunny yellows are most universally flattering, and a matt texture will ensure depth of colour. For added intensity, use eye shadow primer first and then dab—don't sweep—powder shadow on with your brush. I took the colour deep into the inner eye corners and all the way up to the inner brows, using an angled brush for a graphic, modern off-effect. The lids were painted with a small shadow brush, the yellow blended out and upwards. Lashings of brown (less harsh than black) mascara are needed for definition with a light, tight shade like this. For pale-skinned girls, stick to yellow just on the nails; matt mustard shades are right on trend."

Ocean liner

"The beauty of this look is that it doesn't have to be perfect—you want it to appear lived-in," says Lisa. "Choose a smudgy black pencil to line your top and bottom lashes, then run a turquoise-blue shadow over the top, adding a little extra to the inner corners. Rely on plenty of black mascara and slightly roughen brows with clear brow gel for a pretty punk vibe."
